Today, the Director of Civil Aviation of Guernsey handed over the first Air Operator Certificate to Volare Aviation GSY Ltd (Volare), a Guernsey-based air operator of Challenger corporate jets. This was done at the corporate aviation show EBACE in Geneva. An Air Operator Certificate (AOC) allows an air operator to carry passengers or cargo for remuneration, in other words commercial air transport. Airlines need an AOC, but corporate aircraft owners who wish to charter their aircraftor offer public transport also need an AOC. Volare falls in the second category. Whilst the authority for issuing the certificate rests with the Director, the Certification work itself is performed by 2-REG. ----------
The introduction of this new service places 2-REG in a unique position as off-shore provider of aviation registraHon and safety Certification services. “˜We are extremely pleased that we are able to offer commercial air transport cer?fication for our clients and believe this new capability will further enhance our service portfolio´, said Joost Groenenboom, 2-REG Director. The possibility for Guernsey issuing an AOC was created as recent as last March, when the government of Guernsey passed the necessary legislation.----------
2-REG HAS OFFERED REGISTRATION AND CERTIFICATION TO WNERS OF SMALL AIRCRAFTS----------
Under a public-private partnership with the Guernsey Director of Civil Aviation, 2-REG has offered since its start in December 2013 registraHon and certification services to owners of small aircraft, corporate aircraft and leasing companies owning large commercial air transport aircraft when off-lease. It now also offers AOC services. Since inception it has registered more than 115 aircraft. The brand name 2-REG reflects the aircraft nationality mark of Guernsey which is the number 2. To make up an aircraft´s registraHon, it is followed by four leaders. As an example, two of Volare´s aircraft are registered 2-MATO and 2-SEXY. Source 2REG
